

You are not alone

A guide and relevant forms for Wyoming residents seeking temporary guardianship of minor-aged family members for educational, medical and dental-care purposes

On the cover: Jeanette James of Lander is raising her two grandsons, Cedar and Chase, a granddaughter, Rasheal, and a great-granddaughter, Riley. Photo by Wayne Nicholls.

This guide was published November 2005 by AARP Wyoming, Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) of Laramie County, Casey Family Programs, grandparents from the Wyoming Kinship Project and Wyoming Legal Services, Inc. This packet is brought to you as a public service and is not intended to be legal advice.

You are not alone

If you are a grandparent raising a grandchild in Wyoming, you are not alone.

Since the late 1990s, the number of Wyoming grandparents caring for their grandchildren has risen sharply, as it has across the nation. In many cases, the situation is temporary.

But even in a temporary situation, grandparents or other relatives caring for a child can run into legal hurdles trying to enroll the child in school or make appointments with the child's doctor and dentist.

Recognizing the increasing number of these family caregivers, the Wyoming Legislature in 2005 created a way for them to obtain temporary guardianship of the child for educational, medical and dental care purposes. The legislation provides a means for family caregivers to easily and inexpensively navigate the legal system to be able to serve the child's needs as quickly as possible.

This guide will walk you through the necessary steps for obtaining the legal means to work with the child's school, and their health-care and dental providers. It is a public service of AARP Wyoming, Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) of Laramie County and Casey Family Programs. It is not intended to provide legal advice. You should consider engaging the services of an attorney if these forms do not adequately meet your particular situation, if you need help filling them out, or if you would like to adopt the child(ren) or petition the court for permanent guardianship or to establish a conservatorship.

If a temporary guardianship is granted by the district court, it is valid for one year, and can be renewed by re-petitioning the court. Some family members opt instead to apply for permanent guardianship, but that process can be lengthy and expensive, and many families prefer not to revoke the rights of the parent(s). Others pursue a conservatorship, which enables the guardian to also control the property of the child(ren). Adoption is another option. It differs from permanent guardianship in that the adopting parents will not need to annually report to the courts. This guide only applies to those pursuing temporary guardianship for educational, medical and dental care purposes.

In addition to the guide, there are several forms included in this packet that you may need to file with the court system. Some are mandatory and others apply only in certain circumstances. You or your legal representative must decide which ones apply to your particular situation.

If you have any questions about which forms you should complete and file with the district court in the county where you and the child(ren) live, you should consult an attorney (some attorneys may offer their services for free, what's known as pro bono, depending on your ability to pay) or call Wyoming Legal Services, Inc. at (800) 442-6170. Wyoming Legal Services is a not-for-profit organization that provides legal guidance to Wyoming residents for free, but clients will be responsible for litigation costs, such as filing fees and fees for serving paperwork to the parents.

Please note that laws can change so you should ensure that you have the most recent version of the forms.

The basics

Before you get started with the guide and completing the forms included in this packet, there are a few things you should consider.

- Take your time. Read all the forms through before you begin filling them out. You may even want to make a photocopy of the forms before you get started so that you have a handy back up in case you make a mistake.
- Once you have read the forms, gather the necessary documentation you will need to complete them – having paperwork in front of you will help you avoid mistakes, like inserting the wrong date of birth or Social Security number. If you do not have the Social Security number(s) for the child(ren) and/or the natural parent(s) or legal guardian(s), write “unknown” on the forms where asked.
- For each form you use, make sure you fill it out completely, correctly and legibly. If the judge cannot read what you write, your documents will be returned to you without action. Some district courts will require you to type on the forms, so it is best to check with the court before completing the paperwork.
- If you do not know the judicial district number where the child(ren) reside, ask the clerk of court for assistance.
- Judges cannot speak with you, give you legal advice or make corrections to the forms (the judge will return documents that are incorrect or incomplete). Do not contact the judge by personal letter, by phone or otherwise. All communication with the court must be during hearings, in other proceedings at which all parties are present or through legal documents you file.
- Clerks also cannot instruct you on the law. It is your responsibility to properly prepare and file the necessary forms with the district court where the child(ren) reside. Employees in the district judge’s or in the clerk of the court’s office are not obligated (nor are they usually qualified) to help you complete the forms or to provide you with advice or guidance. Questions or problems may require the help of a lawyer, but having these forms in hand should reduce the fee you would otherwise need to pay for their services.
- You may want to read the legislation that the judge will use in the courtroom. It is Wyoming Revised Statutes §3-2-301 through 3-2-303. Most district courts in Wyoming have a courthouse library or county library where these laws can be read. You also can look up these laws online at: www.courts.state.wy.us.
- It is essential that you be honest and accurate in completing the forms. There are penalties for attempting to mislead the court. The Wyoming Rule of Civil Procedure, Rule 11 (representations to the court), and Wyoming Statute §6-5-301 (perjury) also are available at legal libraries in Wyoming and at www.courts.state.wy.us.
- In Wyoming, a person representing himself or herself is held to the same standards as a person being represented by an attorney. It is wise to take your time and be prepared before filing these or any other documents. Again, if you have specific questions about which forms to complete or how to complete them, please seek the advice of an attorney or call Wyoming Legal Services, Inc. at (800) 442-6170 to see if you qualify for their services.

- You will need to provide a pre-addressed envelope(s) with the proper postage already affixed for all documents that the court needs to mail to you and/or the parents (or legal permanent guardian) of the child(ren).
- If a temporary guardianship is granted by the district court, it is valid for one year. If you need to extend the guardianship, you must ask the same district court for a renewal. If you think this is a possibility, you should contact the court well in advance of the termination of the one-year temporary guardianship term to ensure you meet the court's requirements for an extension.
- You must include your name, address (including city, state, and zip code), and telephone number on each form you use that requires the information at the top left of the first page or the clerk of the court may reject your document.
- If you are petitioning the court for guardianship of more than one child – whether or not their parents/guardians are the same – you may complete one packet for all the children and pay one filing fee. This is an option even if some of the parents/guardians have agreed to your petition in advance and others have not. Simply attach any consent forms and other relevant documents and make clear to the court the status of the petition for each child. Your other options are to either complete a separate set of forms for each child (and pay a filing fee for each child) or complete one packet for all children whose parents/guardians have signed a consent form and one packet for all children whose parents/guardians have not signed a consent form and pay a filing fee for each packet.

The steps

This is essentially a three-step process. Before beginning, make a copy of each of the forms you will need, and please read through all the steps and notes before you start to complete the forms.

Step one: complete the initial paperwork

- The Verified Petition for Temporary Guardianship (Form 101) gets the ball rolling. This is where you ask the court's permission to work directly with schools, health and dental providers on behalf of the child(ren). Completely fill out the form. In paragraph two and five, you must clearly and concisely explain why you are seeking educational, medical and dental care consent authority, including information that shows that the best interest of the children requires the appointment of a guardian. Attach additional sheets as necessary. You may also want to attach any supporting documents you have that explain why you are petitioning the court.
- The Consent to Temporary Guardianship (Form 102) is the form the natural parents or legal guardians should sign if they consent to a temporary guardianship for educational, medical-care and dental-care purposes. This form should be attached to and filed with the petition. As the petitioner, you should complete as much of this form as possible, but make sure the natural parents or legal guardians sign it in front of a notary public.

□ The Ex Parte Temporary Guardianship Order (Form 103) is the form the court uses if it determines that a temporary guardianship for educational, medical-care and dental-care purposes should be ordered without a hearing. This form will be served upon the natural parents/legal guardians who have not signed a consent form along with a notice of their right to a hearing. As the petitioner, you should complete this form, but DO NOT SIGN IT.

□ The Notice of Right to a Hearing (Form 104) is delivered to the natural parents/legal guardians who have not signed a consent form to inform them of your desire to become the temporary guardian for educational, medical and dental care for the child(ren). Complete this form.

NOTE 1: The Verified Petition for Temporary Guardianship (Form 101) requires that your signature(s) be notarized. You must have that done before you go to court to file the documents.

NOTE 2: You may wish to keep your Social Security number(s) confidential, especially if you are seeking child support payments. To do so, complete Form 109 Confidential Statement of Temporary Guardians and submit it with your initial paperwork.

Step two: file the initial paperwork

Keep a copy of each form filed or given to the clerk for your records.

□ File Forms 101 and 102 together with the clerk of the district court and pay the filing fees. There will be filing fees of at least $60 and personal checks may not be accepted. Contact the clerk of the district court where you will be filing the Verified Petition to ask about fees and what types of payment are accepted. Along with Forms 101 and 102, give Form 103 to the clerk of the district court and ask that it be provided to the district court judge. Also present Form 104 to the clerk of the district court and ask that it be kept in the file to be used if the judge signs the Ex Parte Temporary Guardianship Order.

NOTE 1: When you start the process by filing the paperwork with the clerk of the district court, a case number will be assigned and written at the top right of the document. You must include that number on all further paperwork related to the case.

NOTE 2: The judge will review the Verified Petition for Temporary Guardianship and the Ex Parte Temporary Guardianship Order. If the judge signs the Ex Parte Temporary Guardianship Order, it will be returned to the clerk of the district court for filing and a copy will be delivered along with Form 104 to the natural parent(s) of the child(ren).

Step three: notify the parents/permanent guardians

The natural parent(s) or permanent legal guardian(s) (to be known as “parents” and “guardians” for the remainder of this guide) must receive a copy of the Ex Parte Temporary Guardianship Order and Notice of Right to Hearing unless they have signed a consent to temporary guardianship (Form 102) and waived the right of notice. You may choose one of the methods listed below to “serve” the parents or guardians. This means that the court will deliver the necessary documents to the parents or guardians at the last known address you listed in the Verified Petition. You need to select only one of the following options. In cases where the whereabouts of the child’s parents are unknown the court may allow a public notice to be placed several times in an appropriate newspaper. You may ask the clerk of the court if this option is available and, if so, what forms are necessary and whether you will need to consult an attorney.

By mail

If you choose this option, complete Form 105, Certificate of Mailing

This option asks the clerk of the district court to mail copies of the documents to each of the parents or guardians. In order to have the clerk mail the documents you will need to provide to the clerk an envelope with the address of each parent/guardian and the required amount of postage. You also will need to provide to the clerk an envelope with your address and the necessary postage so the clerk may mail a copy of the documents to you as well.

In person

If you choose this option, complete Form 106, Affidavit of Service

Choose this option if you wish to hire a professional to serve the documents in person to each of the parents or guardians (To find a professional, look under “process servers” in the phone book. Please note that you will be responsible for any expenses related to this service.) You need only complete the portion of the form that is above the title: AFFIDAVIT OF SERVICE. After the forms have been adequately delivered to the parents or guardians, the person serving the papers must fill out the rest of the form and then you must file it with the clerk of the district court to prove to the court that all interested persons have been notified of the court action.

Via Sheriff

If you choose this option, complete Form 107, Return of Service

This option asks the sheriff of the county where the parents or guardians live to officially “serve” the documents. The sheriff, under-sheriff or deputy will personally deliver the documents to the parents or guardians. You will need to provide enough copies to serve all of the parents or guardians individually, even if they are married or living at the same address. You need only complete the portion of the form that is above the title: RETURN OF SERVICE. After the forms have been adequately delivered, the sheriff will fill out the rest of Form 106 and file it with the clerk of the district court to prove to the court that all interested persons have been notified of the court action. There is a fee to have the documents served under this option. It usually costs about $20. Contact the sheriff’s department in the county where the parents or guardians live to find out what the fee is to serve the natural parents and what type of payment is accepted.

Additional forms:

Request for Hearing: Form 108

The parents/guardians of the child(ren) are entitled to a hearing before the court. To schedule one they will need to file Form 108, Request for Hearing with the clerk of the court. If a hearing is requested you will be notified, using one of the methods required by the court on the form. We have included this form in the packet so that you are familiar with it. DO NOT fill out this form.

Confidentiality: Form 109

In this packet you will find Form 109: Confidential Statement of Temporary Guardians. This optional form may be used to keep your Social Security number(s) confidential if you are seeking child support payments. If you wish to use this form, file it with your initial paperwork (when you submit forms 101, 102 and 103) to ensure that your privacy will be protected from the very beginning of the process.
